

Kitty Wells, Once

I was foolish once and I let my once get away

I was happy once you'd never believe it today

Eyes got careless once all that was you got away

Life has beauty once it's not worth living today

I slipped out once all that was you slipped away

All great regret like the flavor of wineou only grows deeper with the passing of time

Life had meaning once it's cold and empty today

I was foolish once I let my once get away I let my once get away