

Kleenex Girl Wonder, Running From The Wind

If I could see myself in calmer smoother colors
Then maybe I would think that you might think Im real
But its too late to change now
Cause youve become a fixture
Im saying its the wrong way and I cant stay
But then it cuts
I cant wait to fade out
Like the ending of a picture
Oooh
Im waiting for the black screen in the next scene
But the curtain still stays up
And you keep saying:
Boy, pick up that chin.
But I always end up back where I begin
Put no faith in things you cant rescind
Noo no
There aint no use in running from the wind.

The only universal truths are things you cant see
Ive come to realize that my world depends solely on me
The things that you know now are things that youve created
Youve heard them from another source
Very well of course
But all the same
Your memories gone now
So can it be debated
Oooh
No mater what caught or missed you just dont exist
And your never going to get it back again
Now all the worlds that Im too weak to spin
Look like theyll becoming round again
Where Im going and where Ive always been
Oh, there aint no use in running from the wind

There aint no use in running from the wind.
