

Koffin Kats, The Experiment so much left to say and the hours roll by time is not so endless to this relentless mind reaching for a thought of what is gone before the words the sun takes rise i close the blinds i failed again today enter the mine

your mind slipped too far reality hides
but not for me
is it the last ride
maybe this time
i shame the skin
your god gave me

firing on a god in a cage waiting so long for this day im alive in an altered state traveling the unconscious last gate pounding on the door im afraid of the outside ringing of the phone but its not plugged in to the wall solitude is key to unlock this mystery its getting close i feel it answers appear in dreams

enter the mine
your mind slipped too far
reality hides
but not for me
is it the last ride
maybe this time
i shame the skin
your god gave me

firing on a god in a cage
waiting so long for this day
im alive in an altered state
traveling the unconscious last gate

waiting so long
i become a god

firing on a god in a cage
waiting so long for this day
im alive in an altered state
traveling the unconscious last gate

waiting so long
i become a god
waiting so long
i become a god