

Konkhra, The Reckoning

[Kontos/Lundemark]

Reckoning
Reckoning
Reckoning...

I can't forget about the past who was our redeemer truth, that I thought I found at last but truth became deceiver tried so hard to better myself my soul, my hearts contributor so many times before my life was worse today I am my keeper

In time we'll see our enemy show us his strength and his weaknesses power befall us, or he will crush us as we travel through the ages writing historys pages

I am the link between the future and the past my ancestors blood in me my blood in my children all their powers derive from me, their future in my hands these are the words of the watcher these are the ways that befall us

Past and present revealed the future concealed but readable to the wise ones incomprehensible to the common sons time tells all tales

This book, teller of stories, our lives on display the way we were, may be the way to be our future is nothing but our past repeated tomorrow is today, when yesterday was this day