&lt;/lyrics&gt;

Some day again, we'll meet here
To this day I remember, those words
You too, even now, may have the same feelings
That you're waiting for the day to return...

The one and only answer, to continue believing in Like this 'though it's nothing new, I spoke the words

I'll be waiting forever... even as I cry in loneliness
Where you should be, is here and nowhere else
Under the poplar leaves dancing in the wind
I thought I heard, me being alone

Forever for sure, you smiled saying that you'll be by my side
But it felt like your heart was going far away
In an unknown place you smile
I wish I could run right now, to your side

Believing in a mediocre promise
I held back the tears about to fall, holding them in my heart

I'll be waiting forever... even as I cry in loneliness
Your smile I can't forget
The feeling on my hair of swinging in the wind
Like an old tale, me being alone

I'll be all right I smiled, and waved
But I was praying... please, don't go anywhere...

I'll be waiting forever... even as I cry in loneliness
Your warmth I won't forget
In memories the wind may carry
What I want to send to you, me being alone
