Krux, Sibiria

This place is oh so cold Grasping young and old Come in lock the door The sun is dead, oh Lord Like a thief at night She came in stole the light A winter full of lies Lasting thousaind lives Breathing ice and stone Always so alone I know I won't grow old This place is oh so cold

I die in shameless snow Can't feel arm or toe Without reach I am Sunken undergound I drown in water black You said I'll do just that I welcome rain in May It's winter every day