

Krypteria, Lost

Im trapped under ice, my veins about to burst - all shattered, broken, empty and scared
I honestly dont know what frightens me worse - me going under or you not being there
I thought youd remember the promise you made - I am scared
To never leave me all alone in the rain - so scared

But it seems to me like you never ever told me the ugly truth - misled Excuse me for not understanding
Im so lost, where are you when youre supposed to save me and make sure I will make it through this
Lost and waiting for you, the one who once betrayed me only to tell me that everything will be fine
Seems like my hopes are just a joke anyway - cause Ive been lost all the way

My soul has been flogged, crucified out there - ever since you bailed Ive run all out of tears
I honestly cant tell whats harder to bear - me slowly dying or you not being here
I thought youd remember the promise you made - I am scared

To never leave me all alone in the rain - so scared

But it seems to me like you never ever told me the ugly truth - misled Excuse me for not understanding
Im so lost, where are you when youre supposed to save me and make sure I will make it through this
Lost and waiting for you, the one who once betrayed me only to tell me that everything will be fine
Seems like my hopes are just a joke anyway - cause Ive been lost all the way

I thought youd remember the promise you made to never leave me all alone in the rain

But it seems to me like you never ever told me the ugly truth excuse me for not understanding and being a fool

Im so lost, where are you when youre supposed to save me and make sure I will make it through this
Lost and waiting for you, the one who once betrayed me only to tell me that everything will be fine