

Krzysztof Krecft, Empty Bed

1. We were walking on a tightrope
I had time to sing that
I would have jumped for you with no parachute
I've had so many goodbyes
I don't want to be just another one
How can I be a good man
When I've been broken so many times

I could hold you closer
Don't let go of your hands
Cut off your wings so you can't fly
I could hold you closer
Do anything to get you here

Ref: I didn't hold you tight enough
Because you're gone, you're gone now
We didn't have the chemistry
Since you don't feel it
You were not telling the truth
But now you're not speaking to me
Now someone else calls you his
But I start to fall asleep on your side of the bed

2. My stomach twists knowing that
You will be dreaming with someone else tonight
How can I trust when I have no one
To wake me up from this nightmare
I wanna go somewhere far
But I can't find a place where I belong

Ref: I didn't hold you tight enough
Because you're gone, you're gone now
We didn't have the chemistry
Since you don't feel it
You were not telling the truth
But now you're not speaking to me
Now someone else calls you his
But I start to fall asleep on your side

I didn't hold you tight enough
Because you're gone, you're gone now (fall asleep on your side)
We didn't have the chemistry
Since you don't feel it (fall asleep on your side)
(of the bed) You were not telling the truth
But now you're not speaking to me (fall asleep on your side)
Now someone else calls you his
But I start to fall asleep on your side
