

Kurhaus, Priority #1

it hasn't always been easy there were damn hard times in fact that particular day, you know which one i mean -these tears were real it was no trick to win you back i really don't know what i would do without you don't let the ordinary every day life destroy the wonderland that we built here in our tiny cave i goddamn hate fighting with you screaming about shit none of us cares about emergency room versus some new seven inch is that really so important? important is that my heart beats faster when you enter the room your smile is worth much more - then all my pride live without you? tell me a single reason why and then pass me the dagger/give me the gun please let this feeling last forever i don't want to live without your love i don't want to and i think i can't