

Kutless, Legacy

Oh the memories

Of all the things that shouldn't be

They take you away from all you should be

Don't let it go by as if you agree

Nightmares of the past will fade away

The future of your name is what will stay

Never try to blame the past for everything you say

You have the power you need to change your legacy

Do you really want to be just like the very ones you blame who take you away from all you should be

Don't just stand by as if you agree

Think of the future and when you are gone how will you be remembered then

For all time you can be the one who changed the name
