

Kwan, Little note

You and me used to be magical little beings with no harm in a fairy tale For a while I have been silently falling down, leaving all our dreams and hopes behind There will be no goodbyes, this is the last time for me to be here spending the night Sitting here for hours and just watching you sleeping Hoping for a way to come around here beside you You're the one I always been in love with and I always will
In the morning I'll be leaving you alone
Keys are on the table with a little note
There will be a couple of feathers left in my hair that's how hard I tried to not let go This is why you given me fear in the ability to face it what's fading to the eye Sitting here for hours and just watching you sleeping
Hoping for a way to come around lay beside you You're the one I always been in love with
and I always will
In the morning I'll be leaving you alone
Keys are on the table with a little note
