

Lace, True Love

(beverley mahood/mark dineen)
(track 11 - time 3:49)

I've got a picture of them outside their college dorm
In clothes and hair they'd rather forget they'd ever worn
With their arms around each other when they first started dating
He looks like one of the monkeys
She looks like marcia brady

Things may come and things may go
And some will linger for a while
But true love never goes out of style

And here's the happy couple in a wedding photograph
And lookin' at it now even they can't help but laugh
She's in a mini dress, platforms and thick eye shadow
The same shade as his baby blue tuxedo

'cause things may come and things may go
And some will linger for a while

And though some things change
One thing stays the same
True love never goes out of style
True love never goes out of style

Watchin' mom and dad growing older now together
Learning from them how to make love last forever

And today they celebrate their silver anniversary
They can't believe how many years have passed by so quickly
His hair's the only thing that's thinner
Hers is a different shade
But neither one of them have noticed any change

Things may come and things may go
And some will linger for a while
And though some things change
One thing stays the same
True love, true love
True love never goes out of style
