Lament, Time Fades Away

Her words are fading tones Within the walls of a broken home He closes his eyes Won't see How she cries in memories

She begs him to stay He mumbles >go away!< Her rainy eyes must see That he buried all memories

When comes the time forget? To regret? She's knocked out of her stride But hopes time will be on her side In unity with shame... with blame He thought this step is for cure But he walks the same old floor

Years are gone I'm watching in your face can't hold back the tears I cry DON'T LEAVE ME! the things we could do... ...if our tomorrow comes...

Your life waves in pictures behind your fading eyes they're running away WHAT HAVE I DONE???

TIME TAKES HER AWAY
