

Land of Tales, Choose

Leaving is just another way to say goodbye like quiet roses in your arms man who wants to fly Scars in your eyes telling me what is truth without flame its cold out there without love life is cruel You can be all I have
or all I can lose
You can do everything you want
you just have to choose
And I can be everything you need or everything you lose
I would be always yours
you just have to choose
like quiet room after morning fight things you took things you left behind Pictures on the wall telling me what it was without love its cold out there Without flame without you
or all I can lose
you just have to choose
