Landon Pigg, Tin Man

I don't why I do what I
I don't why I do what I do
It feels so good to me
I guess that's why I do what I
I guess that's why I do what I do
'Cause it feels good to me and it's right there for the taking

With a hammer and a nail a man left to die With a hammer and a nail I eat this coconut, yeah it's true I'm looking at the sunset wondering, "So what?" The tin man's got nothing on me Heart, I hope you wake up soon

I don't know why I feel like I should change I don't know why what I need and what I want can't be the same thing, oh I don't know why I don't miss my friends I don't know why I cannot comprehend how special love can be And it's right there for the taking

With a hammer and a nail a man left to die With a hammer and a nail I eat this coconut, yeah it's good I'm looking at the sunset wondering, "So what?" The tin man's got nothing on me Heart, I hope you wake up soon The tin man's got nothing on me

With a hammer and a nail a man left to die With a hammer and a nail I eat this coconut, yeah it's good I'm looking at the sunset wondering, "So what?" The tin man's got nothing on me Heart, I hope you wake up soon, please
