Lanfscape of souls, Still the Same

Forgotten world left in the background Me still the same and not change Although somebody always wants to change something Wasting his time, precious time Me still the same The same Still the same The same So many unneccessary lies to make you happy Me still the same and not changed (Anyway) I'll do what I want to and you won't stop me Even though you're of a different opinion, Y you are wrong again There was fear and soldier's whip didn't help Me still the same and not changed For me it is something different that counts For you it is only a joke like extorted cry Still the same (x 6)I won't change And you won't change me