

LANY, Thru These Tears

this hurts like hell but I keep telling myself it's gonna get better but it's taking forever I tried to go out but every time I leave the house something reminds me of what's now behind me every day I let go just a little bit more

in the end I'm gonna be alright but it might take a hundred sleepiness nights to make the memories of you disappear but right now I can't see nothing through these tears control my thoughts convincing myself it's your loss I really mean it and I'm starting to believe it cause every day I let go just a little bit more

in the end I'm gonna be alright
but it might take a hundred sleepiness nights
to make the memories of you disappear
but right now I can't see nothing through these tears

out of sight, but you're not out of my mind so it might take somebody else at night to make it feel like you were never here
but right now I can't see nothing through these tears

you said that was over but when you got closer you cried on my shoulder goodbye

in the end I'm gonna be alright
but it might take a hundred sleepiness nights
to make the memories of you disappear
but right now I can't see nothing through these tears

out of sight, but you're not out of my mind
so it might take somebody else at night
to make it feel like you were never here
but right now I can't see nothing through these tears

driving home on any empty highway I thought about you and I hit the breaks what we had and who we were was so clear but right now I can't see nothing through these tears