

Lari White, If I'm Not Already Crazy

(Verlon Thompson/Suzi Ragsdale)

I'm walkin' down this empty street
I don't know where I am or where I'm going
I keep turnin' corners
To keep the pain that follows me confused
I'm talkin' to myself so I don't
Hear his voice on every wind that's blowing
And if I'm not already crazy
My mind is all that I have left to lose

Gone without a warning
The thing I loved the most
What he couldn't tell me heaven only knows
This hour of the morning as I stumble on
I can almost hear my spirit breaking with the dawn

I'm walkin' down this empty street
I don't know where I am or where I'm going
I keep turnin' corners
To keep the pain that follows me confused
I'm talkin' to myself so I don't
Hear his voice on every wind that's blowing
And if I'm not already crazy
My mind is all that I have left to lose

Out here in the darkness
The shadows come to life
How long can I balance on the sharp edge of the night

I'm walkin' down this empty street
I don't know where I am or where I'm going
I keep turnin' corners
To keep the pain that follows me confused
I'm talkin' to myself so I don't
Hear his voice on every wind that's blowing
And if I'm not already crazy
My mind is all that I have left to lose
If I'm not already crazy
My mind is all that I have left to lose
