

Last Winter, For All Times

When you're raining
As you're going down
I'll follow you under
When you're storming
I'll wait with you
Until it's over
Because I've realized that
This will be
The greatest of memories ever known
And I hope that one day while you're looking back
I'll be there
For so long
Walking backwards in circles
And I'm finally growing
I guess I should have believed
That life was more than I thought it was Because you opened a new door
And I love to know
That you'll always be the one
Who sees through
Every mess
I may leave you
You'll be there
