

Laura Bretan, Have you ever hurt someone so much

Have you ever hurt someone so much

Have you ever wished you could start over?

Go back and do things differently.

Now that you're a little wiser,

A little older,

Would you treat some hearts more tenderly?

Have you ever hurt someone so much,

They can't love you anymore?

Have you ever broke a heart so deep,

They don't want you standing at their door?

They don't want to wake up to your footsteps on their floor.

Have you ever hurt someone so much,

They can't love you anymore

Once that big wide river's there between you,

Even Moses couldn't make those waters part.

And there's no bridge for you to tip-toe over

To find that secret place they had their heart

Have you ever hurt someone so much,

They can't love you anymore?

Have you ever broke a heart so deep,

They don't want you standing at their door?

They don't want to wake up to your footsteps on their floor.

Have you ever hurt someone so much,

They can't love you anymore

So be careful, with the ones that love you faithful

Cuz dontcha know you can't go back

Once you've crossed that line

Have you ever hurt someone so much,

They can't love you anymore?

Have you ever broke a heart so deep,

They don't want you standing at their door?

A million "I'm so sorry"'s can't make it like it was before.

Have you ever hurt someone so much

They can't love you anymore.