

Laura Marling, False Hope

Is it still ok. If you don't know how to be alone?
Would be ok. If I just come home tonight?
We share an apartment on a Upper West Side
And my worst problem is I don't sleep at night
Woman downstairs just lost her mind
I don't care how, I surely don't care why
What I know is false hope
What I know is false hope

A storm hits the city and the lights go out before, I can't prepare
The whole downtown looks dark like no one is there
You see the problem over Upper West Side
But my worst problem is I don't sleep at night
Woman downstairs just lost her mind
I don't care how, I surely don't care why
What I know is false hope
What I know is false hope

She'll be alright tomorrow
Neither of us is gonna sleep tonight,
We'll false hope
I hear you begging through the wall
A dying animal's last call

Is it still ok. that I don't know how to be at all?
There's a party uptown but I just don't feel like I belong at all
Do I?
We share an apartment on a Upper West Side
And my worst problem is I don't sleep at night
Woman downstairs just lost her mind
I don't care how, I surely don't care why
What I know is false hope
What I know is false hope
