

Lauren Jauregui, The Day The World Blows Up

Take another breath and hold it in my chest till it hurts Trying to make sense of it doesn't make it better it gets worse and I never ask for help I just put it on a shelf where it can expire, but it always comes back up cause the truth it never leaves, it just gets louder

Oh, if I could be a bird Fly over the rooftops and hills Just forget about the world Sing for all the flowers in the fields Oh, I'd never come down from here

We could start over and sober
cause everybody's fucked up.
I think we'd be closer
if they told us
the day that the world will blow up

Stomach stays in knots cause the audience always has something to say Mmmmm
I'm so tired of pretending shit's just supposed to be this way and that nothing will ever change Got a heart in here for something Just haven't quite figured out what yet if everyone is hiding and scared of everything they don't get

Oh, I'd I could be a bird fly over the steeples and seas Mmm, I would fly around the world (fly around the world) and finally know what it means to be freeeeee

We could start over
sober
cause everybody's fucked up.
I think we'd be
closer
if they told us
the day that the world will blow up (Up)
The day that the world will blow up (Up)
The day that the world will blow up.
