

Lefty Frizzel, Running Into Memories

Funny I keep running funny I keep running running into memories of you
Met your new sweetheart today the one who stole your love away
The love you promised always would be true
He told me everything was fine he didn't know you once were mine
Funny I keep running funny I keep running running into memories of you
Running into memories I know I'll regret
That everyone's a heartache I'll try to forget
Told your new sweetheart goodbye brushed the teardrop from my eye
And walked on down the Lonely Avenue
A fallen star fell from above I thought of fools with wishful love
Funny I keep running funny I keep running running into memories of you