

Lehavoth, Rodents Among Us

What ever tomorrow will bring the heat will still plunge under the skin and cover the (body)...

Scream out your lungs still your voice unheard

To be called human will be an honor for you for your culture had lead you to a place down bellow

To sink to the lowest of bottoms...

Time after time we had tried to give you the acknowledgment you think you deserve so rightfully

Guardians of morals in flesh Watch your back and help you sustain your pitiful stand Too blind and too far for them to see your true nature
Time after you had proven me wrong
All my efforts for nothing

Though you walk like us and look like us you are not a part of this clan Cause every aspect of your rotting culture marks a point so low

Cause every aspect of culture makes me sick Cause every time you rape your sisters and daughters and call that heritage
I win

Cause every time you try to deep your hands in my blood and call that a proper legacy you make my truth glow in the shroud of darkness which is upon us now

Cause every act of such nature just makes me stronger

And they can call me a fascist but I am not

And they can call me a liar but their tongue is filth

Cause my tongue speaks the truth
And my mind tell you what is seen not so far ahead And my mind calls reality as it is
And reality says
You are next in line
