

Lehnen, Learning How Not To Love You

learning how not to love you, baby just as hard, as easy to do as learning how not to speak, or remembering a world before i could see.
counting down the infinity of you.
i know where i must go, but i think i lost my cue.
and one to two was never that hard, but you have to help me.
show me where to start.
if we could trust in what we have, and brush the dust from off our backs.
if we could just have one more try all we need is one more try!