

Lemon Demon, Take A Picture

When you choose your fate, don't think too much.
If you just can't wait, throw out your crutch.
Make a name for yourself, make a self for your name.
Take a picture or two, because you won't be the same.

When you lose your mind, don't think at all.
If you do you'll find you can't recall.
What you did to yourself, what you did to the world.
Take a picture or two, said your mind as it twirled.

In your head, it said, take a picture, it said,
In your head, it said, take a picture, it said,
In your head, it said, take a picture, it said,
In your head.

There's a world of dreams, and it's out of reach.
But above the screams, you hear its speech.
It's a beautiful night, it's a beautiful year.
Take a picture or two, it'll soon disappear.

When the clock strikes one, look out below; "(Look out below.)"
It has just begun, and you don't know "(You don't know.)"
What we did to ourselves, what we did to the sky.
Take a picture or two, said your mind with a sigh.

In your head, it said, take a picture, it said,
In your head, it said, take a picture, it said,
In your head, it said, take a picture, it said,
In your head, it said, take a picture, it said,
In your head, it said, take a picture, it said,
In your head.
