

Lennon, Just One

Verse:

Letters still unopened in a home that's not a home
Ain't nothing going to ever change that
The writings on the wall in words I never wrote
Could it be my lies after all

PreChorus:

Staring in the mirror at these patterns of odd
Taking after your mother another should have been
Ending up like superman in the closet
Unable to come out

Chorus:

Just one more game where someone has to lose
Just one more way to separate the truth
Just one more line they already used
Just one more me
Pretending to be you

Verse:

Hiding in the television again
Looking for anyone to turn you on
Caught on film by a stranger's eye
Just another place I don't belong

PreChorus:

Breaking mirrors of there patterns of odd
Blaming your father for who you really are Placing ads for heroes cause you can't save yourself

Chorus:

Just one more game where someone has to lose
Just one more way to separate the truth
Just one more line they already used
Just one more me
Pretending to be you
