

Lennon, Thank You

She says fuck you
You can't even listen for a couple of minutes
Here's something I've been meaning to say
Yeah it's true, I've been living my life through you
But you can't even do that right
Your not living it my way

(Chorus)
She says thank you for never even caring
I'll plan to see you all in hell
As she sits there saying those stupid words
Over and over again
Thank you for destroying me

A cry rages out from a child
What do you mean by your life
Can't something belong to me
I've given you everything
I've given you a daughter
But where is the mother that I truly need

(Chorus)

(Bridge)
She's lying in his arms at a quarter to three
Now her clothes are across the room
And she's down on her knees
And she's thinking your're no better than her
And I'm no better than any of you
Can't you hear me say

(Chorus)
