Lenny Kravitz, Here To Love

we must all united for we are one creation we must join the fight together we are strong we ust do what's right nin every situation love each other's lives as you would do your own

just think twice before you cast your stone at someone's soul it's their life so the choice is theirs and theirs alone

we are not here to judge we are here to love there's no room for hate we are just one human race we must rise above we are here to love there's no time to waste anymore

(...)

just think twice before you cast your stone at someone's soul it's their life so the choice is theirs and theirs alone

we are not here to judge we are here to love there's no room for hate we are just one human race we must rise above we are here to love there's no time to waste anymore