

Leslie Phillips, Larger Than Life

I met you once backstage at a very tender age you took me under your wing and I remember those seas of screaming hands were at your own command so hypnotised when you sing and there seemed to be a price to pay getting bigger every day and you were larger than life you were graded up to 'hero'
larger than life
and it must be hard to keep living the things that you say when they're making you larger than life I'm learning what it means to be somebody's dream when I'm looking for the dream myself but that's not really me they're twisting what they see Its only one hero to Hell and there seems to be a price to pay getting higher every day
Larger than life
We're graded up to 'hero'
larger than life
and you know its hard to keep living the things that we say when they're making us larger
and the higher you're above it all the easier it is to fall
larger than life
larger than life
