

Level 42, It's Over

I won't be here when you come home I'm sorry if you don't understand, forgive me if you can but I can see another road
and I ain't coming back Don't look for me around this town
'cause I will be so far away, you'll never find me anywhere and I won't take no souvenirs no perfumed picture promises because it's over
and I ain't coming back
You gave me everything and now I'm breaking your heart you know that I don't mean to tear your world apart
I would never leave if I thought you couldn't stand the pain a letter in the hall is written on the wall a letter with no words of love at all because it's over (because it's over)
and I ain't coming back
And as I close the door
I know I'm breaking your heart I should have loved you more instead I've torn your world apart
And as I walk into the lonely afternoon
I feel sad enough
I feel bad enough and all the times when you are lonely where you are please don't hate me then I just could not pretend oh no
Feel the tears
I can feel the tears running through the years