Level 42, The Machine Stops

I found the air

down here in the chambers you warned me of danger but I want to stop this - for a moment there must be someone - in the open waiting for the starlight rendezvous at midnight I want to touch them - and to love them and we'll be there - when it's over all the love we'll never know the machine has got control can you hear the voices calling out the choices spend a lifetime - going nowhere the machine stops - and it's over

the machine stops
