

Life Long Tragedy, This Feels Right

If this world doesnt take your hand,
it will only knock you down.

If you wont pick yourself up,
maybe you dont belong on your feet.

I had to learn this the hard way,
and Ill never be the same.

For every sleepless night kept up by thoughts of better things, I can name a million better memories.

Death is certain, and thats for sure.

Its up to us what happens before.

One day not too far from now, this is gonna have to end.

I will not just sit around, and ask where my life went.

Recite your memories. Hold on to your friends.

Cling to the times you shared. Love what you did.

And with every passing day,

were throwing up our firsts.

This feels right to us, live it to the fullest.