English Translation:

Another short night, lost in your e-mail

Alone in your room, with nothing but the screen's glare
Feeling happy and hurt at the same time
This goes on all night today is long gone

Smiling on the outside, crying on the inside
Do you even know what silly thing you're arguing about?
Smiling on the outside, crying on the inside while they grin at each other
They're oranges that glow like the sun

So many pictures of your dreams you want to display
We could get lost in the endless memories of those days
I told you, if you're not with me
I'll never say a word about them

Smiling on the outside, crying on the inside, the future comes along
Will it bring arguments, or compromise?
Smiling on the outside, crying on the inside looking serious and moving on
I want another bite of this bittersweet orange
