

Limp, Bag Lunch

He sits by himself bag lunch in hand wearing all the wrong clothes fashion like Dad watching everyone else thinking what's the difference the difference is all

you're better than the rest you just don't know it yet that's the problem with you this is just a test
you'll pass it if you don't settle like the rest his best friend's a book and the mall in his room hanging out in chapters with nothing to do and all that he hears is "what's wrong with you?" now leave it alone

this is just a test

life is not that easy he'll find a way to go
life is not that easy
now he knows
