

Lina Morgana, Far Away

Going by your house again,
Leaving for the train and then,
You call me to remind me that,
You haven't made your mind up yet.

It's very condescending,
That you have the power to end this.
And it's very condescending,
That you have the power to end this,
Just like that.

I want you to need me.
And I want you to see me.
Why is it so easy,
Turn it on and turn it off?
You want me again,
As soon as I could walk away.
You want me again,
As soon as I get far away.

And she is still there, on the floor,
Left there from the night before.
I've no perspective anymore,
I never really have.

You're very hard to lie to,
When I'm still in love and I can't hide it.
Very hard to lie to,
When I'm still in love
And I can't hide it!

I want you to need me.
And I want you to see me.
Why is it so easy,
Turn it on and turn it off?
You want me again,
As soon as I could walk away.
You want me again,
As soon as I get far away.

Sometimes, when I look at you, I think I see you truly
Then, sometimes, I look again,
I swear you're looking through me

I want you to need me.
And I want you to see me.
Why is it so easy,
Turn it on and turn it off?
You want me again,
As soon as I could walk away.
You want me again,
As soon as I get far away.
