

Linda Eder, Dangerous Game

(female)

I feel your fingers
Cold on my shoulder
Your chilling touch
As it runs down my spine
Watching your eyes
As they invade my soul
Forbidden pleasure
Im afraid to make mine
At the touch of your hand
At the sound of your voice
At the moment your eyes meet mine
I am out of my mind
I am out of control
Full of feelings I cant define

(male)

Its a sin with no name

(female)

Like a hand in a flame

(male)

And our senses proclaim

(both)

Its a dangerous game

(male)

A darker dream

That has no ending

Thats so unreal

You believe that its true

A dance of death

Out of a mystery tale

The frightened princess

Doesnt know what to do.

Will the ghosts go away? (female): No

Will she will them to stay? No

Either way theres no way to win. No

(female) (male):

All I know is Im lost No

And Im counting the cost No

My emotions are in a spin. No

I dont know whos to blame

(male)

Its a crime and a shame

(female)

But its true all the same

(both)

Its a dangerous game

No one speaks

Not one word

But what words

Are in our eyes

Silence speaks

Loud and clear

All the words

We dont want to hear

At the touch of your hand

At the sound of your voice

At the moment your eyes meet mine

I am out of my mind

I am loosing control

Fighting feelings I cant define

(female)

Its a sin with no name

(male)

No remorse and no shame

Fire fury and flame
(female)
Cause the damage to blame
(both)
And the angels proclaim
Its a dangerous game