

Linda Eder, Someone

We all lose our way sometimes get caught out in the rain blue skies turn to gray sometimes we've all heard that refrain as long as there's someone who will take you as you are you'll never need a lucky star
'Cause when someone's there who will listen someone there who won't judge you one who'll care and just love you you'll make it through and when there's a shoulder to cry on someone you can rely on
be there too for that someone there for you Everybody needs a friend every now and then when you feel you're near the end just remember when somebody held you in their lovin' arms and then helped you start over again
'Cause when someone's there who will listen
when you're there for someone someone's always there for you
