Linoleum, On a Tuesday

I got a message says that you wanna know me That's how I know today it must be a friday It's been a while since we were last wasted Funny how you never call me on tuesday

I wouldn't like to say that you're not a good friend But seems you're only around when it's snowing Today's a grey day but I know that you won't know I've heard you're far too busy powdering your nose

I'd like to know you But when I see you, you act like I'd like to know you But when I see you, you always feel like God

Don't understand why I feel nervous around you I can't explain it must be something that you do Anyway you're a million miles from me I think I live in a different world from you

I'd like to know you But when I see you, you act like I'd like to know you But when I see you, you always feel like God

I got a message says that you wanna know me That's how I know today it must be a friday It's been a while since we were last wasted Funny how you never call me on tuesday

I'd like to know you But when I see you, you act like I'd like to know you But when I see you, you always feel like God
