

Lisa Brokop, Keep Mom And Dad In Love

We barely touch, we hardly say goodnight,
How could she have known, she's only five,
I tucked her in, warm and safe,
'Bout to close her door, and walk away,
Then my heart stopped when I heard her say,

I promise, honest, I'll be good,
Just one wish I leave you,
Bring back their happy faces,
Just make them kiss and make up,
Please keep Mom and Dad in love.

Her little prayer sure opened up my eyes,
Our baby angel made me realize,
Those whispered words she prayed for us,
They were filled with innocence and love,
How could we think of ever giving up?

I promise, honest, I'll be good,
Just one wish I leave you,
Bring back their happy faces,
Just make them kiss and make up,
Please keep Mom and Dad in love.

Please keep Mom and Dad in love...
