

Lit, Slip

I should have called, but it was late, and you were sleeping, my dear.
I would hate for you to hear what I was putting you through.
I'm trying hard to be the man I know that you think, I am.
I'm really glad you weren't there, but now I wish you were here.

Because we're so wonderful,
So untouchable.
And just when I thought it was under control,
everything just starts to...

The pillow burns, I toss and turn,
from all the voices, I said.
You should have known better than to ever listen,
to me.

Because we're so wonderful,
So untouchable.
And just when I thought it was under control,
everything just starts to...
Slip
Right through my fingers, finding its way to the tips.
Well I try and forget but all that I taste is your lips, crying and kissing me.

Because we're so wonderful,
So untouchable.
You're the biggest, part of me.
We're so wonderful,
So untouchable.
And just when I thought it was under control,
everything, everything...
Slips.

Right through my fingers, finding its way to the tips.
Well I try and forget but all that I taste is your lips, crying and kissing me.
Slips.
Right through my fingers, finding its way to the tips.
Well I try and forget but all that I taste is your lips, crying and kissing me.