

Lloyd Cole, Margo's Waltz

she said don't worry baby i'll do my own crying i'm a big girl now
now i'm gonna be okay
yes i'll find a new way of living you know i will

and you lie there without sleeping
and you stare at your wall and you realize you're not weeping you don't need her anymore

you say don't hate me baby it won't hurt you if you do you got no reason not to she'll kiss you on the head says there's no easy road for leaving if it hurts you too

you walk by the old place looks like just any other place yeah that's what you say you say i'll be okay
sure i will

'cause you don't need her anymore you guess that it's over
