

Lloyd Cole, Undressed

you look so good when you're depressed better even in your current state of undress tears caressing me like rain and i'm not even thinking, i feel fine in your pain the coolest thing i ever saw you were sitting there smoking my cigarettes you were naked on the bare stone floor you looked at me to say don't guess i was only watching, yes i love you more undressed is it really such a sin?
should i feel some kind of shame?
will i truly go to hell?
oh you never lock the bathroom door should i be embarrassed when i've seen a hundred times before how do married couples cope should i say excuse me darling, i don't know we could disconnect the telephone just sit around and mess around and tell your ma we went to rome, tennessee and i'm not even drinking, i feel fine, it's scary
is it really such a sin?
oh well
the coolest thing i ever saw
you looked at me to say don't guess i was only watching, is it bad that i should love you best undressed
