

Lobo, I Can't Believe You Anymore

(Lobo)

The next time I see you
I know what it will be
You haven't had enough time
To think out you and me
You'll say that you have been lonely
That's not what my friends say
But you'll always deny it
And make things look your way

When I see you the next time
And your eyes burn in to mine
Will that set my doubt lose
And change your lies into truths
Once more
Or is today the day I'll start believing
I can't believe you anymore

You don't want to burn your bridges
On the way to where ever you're bound
You don't want to make commitments
Until you're sure of what you've found
So I keep letting you lead me
Down a road of no return
I know my mind is telling my heart
It's about time you learned