

Loretta Lynn, I'll Still Be Missing You

(Warner McPherson)

I'll still be missing you just as long as the sun shines through
No matter what I do I'll still be missing you
I told myself when I walked out your door don't look back you don't need him anymore
Out there somewhere a new world you're gonna find
So walk away and leave the rest of time
I'll still be missing you just as long as the sun shines through
Pretending that I'm not blue I'll still be missing you [steel]
What a fool I was to think that I could leave away of life already built in me
Now all those times that used to seem so bad I know now were the best I've ever had I'll still be missing you...
