

Lubjan, I Lose My Way

I lose my way like a little child
And tell my soul to sing
I ate and drank your precious words
And kindled a short and bitter smile...

Endless...summer days..
And your shy smile
Makes me think of what i now deplore

There's a voice in the wind that I just can't hear
Clouds beyond clouds above me
I don't know, I don't care cause there's no difference
That person that I was and this one
Don't feel the same

There's a voice in the wind that I just can't hear
Clouds beyond clouds above me
I don't know, I don't care cause there's no difference
That person that I was and this one
Don't feel the same

Shadows hold their breath and I'm alone now
With a pain upon my daily street
In this cold moon ray
Let me offer you my reassuring profile
I can't shine again
Live and love and smile...

There's a voice in the wind that I just can't hear
Clouds beyond clouds above me
I don't know, I don't care cause there's no difference
That person that I was and this one
Don't feel the same

There's a voice in the wind that I just can't hear
Clouds beyond clouds above me
I don't know, I don't care cause there's no difference
That person that I was and this one
Don't feel the same

In all the lonely landscape round...
I see no sight and hear no sound...

Endless...summer days...
And your shy smile
Makes me think of what i now deplore

There's a voice in the wind that I just can't hear
Clouds beyond clouds above me
I don't know, I don't care cause there's no difference
That person that I was and this one
Don't feel the same...
