

Lubjan, There's No Rain

You were my only source of light
But I won't see you again
I'm so tired I'm so scared
It's all that I can say

But I still remember you and I
Now I'm still hoping
I don't feel up to doing much
I could only whisper silently

Would you like to play again after ruining my space?
Or would you like to hide
In your small talk in the same thoughts
That you're always looking for?
There's no more time for understanding
It's not a bad joke but only what I feel
Do you still believe in me?

My cold summer turns to winter snow
Cause I won't see you again
You are floating in my useless words
There's no rain on my face but I feel it the same

Would you like to play again after ruining my space?
Or would you like to hide
In your small talk in the same thoughts
That you're always looking for?
There's no more time for understanding
It's not a bad joke but only what I feel
Do you still believe in me?

So I'm wasting my time
To remember and believe
But it doesn't really matter without you

Would you like to spend some time
With all I feel inside?
I feel the sound of you is making me alive
There's no more time for understanding
It's not a bad joke but only what I feel
Do you still believe in me?

There's no rain on my face but I feel it the same
