

Lucerin Blue, Sunset Blvd.

Going to find myself today in a place that I know
Going to find myself today in a place I thought I'd never go
Picture yourself here
You are dead and unaware

You're dead in the water
There is no other
Who can help but him who says
"I will never leave"

Going to find myself today in a
Place I am breathlessly staring
The captain says the ship is going down
It sort of reminds me of home
Cold blooded lips reminisce of the way things use to be Cold blooded wrists miss the hands that carry me home tonight

Picture yourself there
you are dead and unaware
Of the hand that's holding you and reaching out to me

I never wrote you off
You were right outside the door

Going to find myself today in a place that I'm lying face down I'll never stay
An Angel is singing songs for me
About lovers at night and when she is taking me home Cold blooded lips remind me of the way things used to be Cold blooded wrists touch the hands that won't leave me alone

After I will sing to you
