

Lucero, Little Silver Heart you're too sweet to let go of but i don't need to fall in love now i'm too tired to talk my way out of this one it's a losing game i've had enough it's too late to make things right and there ain't no strength left in this heart of mine now we make quite a pair but we never got our share of good times it sure felt nice little silver heart

that you once adored
and you don't wear my heart around your neck no more you're too good for this game of mine and girl i know i never treat you right just a little silver heart send my lucky star on a little silver chain valentine
all the tears were cried for you don't mean a thing all the tears were cried for me just won't change me
