

Lucy Street, Pick Up The Phone

Baby when you're
Sick of being alone
Anytime you need me
Just pick up the phone
And if you should ever find
Yourself on your own
Then all you ever have to do
Is pick up the phone

Just dial my number, baby
And Ill come running, honey
Just dial my number, baby

My friends say: I should let you go
And just let it slide
It makes sense but baby they don't know
How I'm feeling inside
Well everybody needs somebody
And you're the one that I need, so

Baby when you're
Sick of being alone
Anytime you need me
Just pick up the phone
And if you should ever find
Yourself on your own
Then all you ever have to do
Is pick up the phone

Just dial my number, baby
And Ill come running, honey
Just dial my number, baby

I wish that I could find a way
How to turn back time
And I wish I knew the words to say
As to change your mind
Cause everybody needs somebody
And you're the one that I need, so

Baby when you're
Sick of being alone
Anytime you need me
Just pick up the phone
And if you should ever find
Yourself on your own
Then all you ever have to do
Is pick up the phone

I know I should let it be
And get on with my life
(Get on with my life)
And I know I should set you free
But it cuts like a knife, so

Baby when you're
Sick of being alone
(All you ever have to do)

Baby when you're
Sick of being alone

Pick up the phone
Pick up the phone
Pick up the phone, baby
